The name of the Society is ARTHUR ERICKSON FOUNDATION

The purposes of the Society are:

1. To advance education, and to advance the public's understanding and appreciation of architecture and design, by:
 - a. producing exhibitions, presentations, tours and other events, and publications, videos and other media, to explain and celebrate the built work and design ideas and philosophies of Arthur Erickson;
 - b. restoring, developing and maintaining the Arthur Erickson House and Garden in Vancouver as a publicly-accessible heritage site; and
 - c. advocating for the good stewardship of other significant physical works designed by Arthur Erickson, and providing counsel on their sustainable management so that they can continue to exemplify the design philosophy of Arthur Erickson to the general public.
2. To advance education by developing prizes and scholarships intended to reward and assist emerging Canadian practitioners and students of architecture and related disciplines whose work or study hold promise of fulfilling Arthur Erickson's vision of inspired design.
